Objective:

Passionate educator and cultural advocate seeking to inspire lifelong learning and global awareness through innovative teaching and community engagement.

WORK EXPERIENCES

Educator: I have diverse teaching experiences, ranging from young children to professional educators. In Sunday School, I dedicated more than 20 years to teaching young learners, ages four to 12, mentoring over 300 students in developing their social and spiritual growth through interactive lessons. As a high school teacher, I not only taught various social studies and English subjects but also conducted orientation sessions for freshmen through freshman seminar courses. Additionally, I played a crucial role in preparing senior high school students for graduation and their transition into college or the real world. In my role as a lecturer for professional and continuing education, I have developed curricula and delivered lectures on social sciences and other essential training tools. These resources are designed to help educators and other learners integrate valuable knowledge into their professions as part of their ongoing professional development.

Leader: I have led various community organizations catering to individuals from children to adults. Throughout my experience, I have planned activities aimed at promoting spiritual, physical, social, and cultural well-being. Additionally, I have conducted both in-person and online courses, meetings, and counseling sessions as necessary. As the Founder, I currently serve as the Executive Director and Lecturer at KULTURA Academy, an online academy for professional and continuing education and expanding KULTURA's educational reach to ~18,000 followers, delivering cultural awareness programs annually on Facebook.
